Extra security for Wireless

SECURITY at this summer's Wireless Festival in Finsbury Park is to be beefed up by the organisers of the event.

The announcement was made last week by the chief executive of Festival Republic, the company responsible for the three-day festival scheduled for July 8, 9 and 10.

It seeks to reassure residents and park users that its new management strategy will ensure no recurrence of last year's problems when large tracts of the park were off-limits and major disruption, damage and anti-social behaviour was caused by the 50,000 revellers.

Festival spokesman Melvin Benn said: "Our new security strategy will solve issues from last year's event, which includes the restructuring and management of key areas, specifically site structure and security."

Meanwhile, the Friends of Finsbury Park group, who are seeking to stop the festival going ahead, have given Haringey Council a deadline of Wednesday to respond to its intention to seek a judicial review to overturn the local authority's decision to permit the event.

Centre boosted by Amy charity

MAKING music was singer Amy Winehouse's passion – and through a £7,450 grant presented last week by the foundation set up in her name, disabled youngsters at a Muswell Hill centre will be able to do the same.

Janis Winehouse-Collins and Mitch Winehouse, parents of the singer-songwriter, who died in 2011, handed over a cheque with other trustees from the foundation for musical therapy sessions to the London Centre for Children with Cerebral Palsy.

The couple also presented the centre, in Coppetts Road, with a personal gift of an electronic keyboard and stand.

It's the third year the centre has been able to provide the music sessions thanks to the foundation's generosity.

Attention!: Cadets in front of their new base

Cadets' delight at their purpose-built £1.2m headquarters

SPIT and polish and drill practise suddenly seems a whole lot more appealing for army and air cadets belonging to two Tottenham units.

The dilapidated, draughty and cramped hut and metal cabin each previously occupied has been replaced with a purpose-built £1.2million base they will share.

A ceremony last week attended by the Queen's representative, Lord Lieutenant for Greater London Kenneth Olisa, celebrate the official opening.

The two-storey facility is on the same site where the two cadet units' bases previously stood behind Tottenham Community Sports Centre, in High Road, Tottenham.

It replaces the ramshackle wooden shack which 268 (Tottenham) Squadron, Air Training Corps has used for more than 30 years and the metal cabin nearby, which was 216 Tottenham Army Cadet Force's (Blue and Royals) home.

At the event on Tuesday, a plaque naming it the Ken Stokley Joint Cadet Centre was unveiled by the Lord Lieutenant.

It honours the former chairman of 268 Squadron, who served it and the wider community for more than 30 years before his death in 2014.

The building, which includes classrooms, offices, a kitchen, a hall and a parade ground has been built by the Reserve Forces and Cadets Association for Greater London, in conjunction with Haringey Council.

David Afram, commanding officer of 268 (Tottenham) Squadron said: "Having operated in wooden huts dating back to the 1960s, the opportunity to carry out training in a modern, spacious and energy efficient building is fantastic."

Captain David Cawrey, the Army cadet unit's commanding officer, added: "Both cadets and staff are looking forward to the future now we have a brand-new, purpose-built facility."

POLICE HUNT MEN AFTER TEEN RAPE

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

POLICE are hunting for two men after a girl in her mid-teens was raped near a popular playground.

The young victim was attacked near the playground and exercise equipment in Ducketts Common Park, Haringey, at about 9pm on Saturday, March 12, say police.

Detectives from the Met Police's Sexual Offences Exploitation and Child Abuse Command want to speak to two young men in connection with their investigation.

Police say that both men are described as black, of large build and aged about 18 years old. One had Afro style hair and was wearing a black coat, which zipped up to his chin, dark trousers and black trainers. He may have been carrying a small black Nike bag.

The other man was wearing a puffer jacket, possibly with a Nike logo on the front, dark trousers, a dark hat, that had a circular logo with a cross through it and a hoodie, and had a black motorbike-style scarf over his face, with white stitching.

Anyone with information is asked to contact detectives at the incident room on 020 8217 7448 or 07342 080948 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

'Partnership' which spells end of an era

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

DECADES of local authority provision of a comprehensive library service throughout the borough ended this month as the first "community library partnership" was announced.

Ridge Avenue library, in Winchmore Hill, is now run by West Lea School.

The deal is being touted as a "partnership" between the library service and the specialist sports college, in Haselbury Road, Edmonton, and school bosses say they will be using the new set-up to offer work experience placements to pupils with special learning needs.

According to a Bush Hill Park Residents' Association newsletter, the students will also be selling coffees and teas on certain days.

Staff from West Lea will be based in the library.

There are no longer any paid council staff in the library. Volunteers and staff from West Lea have taken their place.

According to Michael Hardyman, a Bush Hill Park resident, who uses the John Jackson library, in Agricola Place, a similar situation has occurred there and he believes that it has impacted on the quality of service.

He told the Advertiser: "It has become apparent that if volunteers only are present the service offered is poorer because they only have limited access to the IT system."

"I am not party to the detailed operational reasons behind this, but talking to the staff it appears that they have a limited screen and cannot access the data held on library users."

"This means that they cannot issue library cards with the result that you can no longer join the library at John Jackson unless an employee of Enfield Council [as opposed to a volunteer], who is library trained, is present."

'Poorer service': Michael Hardyman outside John Jackson library, in Bush Hill Park

The council is focusing its resources on four flagship libraries while other libraries, while still technically under council control, will be run in partnership agreements or by volunteers.

Junior doctors stage historic walk-out

Striking junior doctors

JUNIOR doctors have staged their first ever all-out strike in protest at the government's proposal to force them to work hours their trade union says are "unsafe".

Although all doctors below consultant level have already been on strike this year, the industrial action yesterday and today is the first time that junior doctors have withdrawn from emergency and A&E care. The walk-outs are scheduled to take place between 9am and 5pm on both days.

The British Medical Association has said that consultants will cover emergency departments and hospitals have cancelled all non-emergency, outpatient and elective surgery.

North Middlesex University Hospital, in Edmonton, has the borough's only A&E department and in recent months has been at the centre of controversies over waiting times.

Staff at the emergency unit have even made PA announcements telling patients to go home if their condition is not life-threatening.

On Tuesday morning, a spokesman from North Middlesex warned: "There is a likelihood of patients having to wait for longer than usual for non-emergency treatment."

The Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust, which runs Chase

Farm Hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, admitted that more procedures would be cancelled than previously because of the scale of the strike action.

A spokeswoman said: "While we are working hard to ensure that cancellations are kept to a minimum, the nature of this industrial action means we have had to cancel more appointments than with previous strikes. Patients whose treatment is affected will have been contacted by telephone to inform them their appointment has been cancelled. We will follow this up to re-book an alternative appointment in the next two to three weeks."

Fancy that – church cafe fun day raises £300 for food bank

STORMTROOPERS, Disney princesses and a couple of tiny Darth Vaders were among the crowds at a comic-themed cake baking sale.

Geekfest was held at Karen's Kitchen, a cafe at St Luke's Church, that stands on the edge of Hilly Fields, to raise money for the North Enfield Food Bank.

Visitors to the fundraiser were encouraged to dress up as their favourite comic book hero.

Organiser and cafe owner Karen Nash said it was a wonderful fun day, full of "silliness and laughs" that raised more than £300.

"There were lots of stalls, kids' stuff, games, crafts and, of course, cakes," she said. "People really got behind the theme and we had such a good time."

"We collect for the food bank here at St Luke's and it's really sad the number of people who rely on the food bank. It's a real problem in today's society."

Since she took over the running of the church cafe, in Phipps Hatch Lane, and renamed it Karen's Kitchen just over two years ago, she has raised £1,500 for various charities.

Karen, 44, who is moving to Manchester in July to start up a Scandinavian cafe with her brother, said she wanted to raise £1,500 before she left and was delighted with her legacy.

Hospital in good voice

A SINGALONG proved the perfect pick-me-up for patients at North Middlesex University Hospital on Monday.

Patients, staff and visitors sang and danced as Enfield Community Singers staged a free concert at the hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton.

They performed a variety of popular tunes from Broadway and Hollywood musicals to hits by The Beatles.

Steppin' Out by Joe Jackson and All My Loving by the Fab Four were among the 23-strong choir's repertoire.

More than 300 patients, staff and visitors enjoyed the free lunchtime concert, which was held as part of the hospital's Arts in the Atrium programme.

And they helped raise the roof by joining in with classic tunes including There is Nothing Like a Dame, from South Pacific, and Out of My Dreams, from Oklahoma.

Two members of the choir were recruited by conductor Simon Gilbert, a professional singer after they had been in the audience at a previous lunchtime hospital concert.

"It was a fantastic event," said John Carrier, chairman of the North Middlesex University Hospital NHS Trust John Carrier.

"Our patients and staff really enjoyed themselves. They sang along and danced. It was a great occasion and we are very grateful to the choir."

Greece is the word at festival of culture

WHILE Easter is a fading memory for many of us, the borough's Greek community is looking forward to theirs this Sunday.

To mark the forthcoming festival of Pascha, Enfield's Jacobean mansion, Forty Hill, celebrated the biggest day in the Greek Orthodox Church's religious calendar last weekend.

More than 500 people flocked to activities at the grade 1 listed mansion in Forty Hill to learn about Greek culture and customs and take part in workshops associated with the festival.

It included traditions such as egg decorating, candle making, making pottery and paper flower making, as well as an Easter trail exploring the grounds surrounding the mansion.

Traditional folk dancing was performed by the Andreas Frangeskides dance school and fun workshops were provided by Winchmore Hill-based Asterakia music club to help children learn about Greek language and culture.

"Many of those who attended were of Greek or Greek Cypriot heritage, but there were many more who were non-Greeks who enjoyed learning and immersing themselves in Greek culture," said Forty Hill spokeswoman Elizabeth Elia.

Attention: DENTURE WEARERS

If you are a denture wearer then this article may be of some interest to you!!
If you can relate to any of the following questions then it is a sign your denture needs attention:

DO YOU FIND YOUR DENTURES:

- Do not fit as well on your gums as they used to?
- Are they loose?
- Do not cut food as well as they used to?
- Do they make your face look older?
- Have discoloured despite meticulous cleaning or
- Cause discomfort/pain on chewing?

If any of the above breeds familiar territory then I may be able to alleviate some of these problems for you.

My name is Caroline Persaud I am a qualified CLINICAL DENTAL TECHNICIAN. Many of you may be aware of Dental Technicians/Mechanics who repair and produce dentures for dentists, however, due to recent changes in the Dental law, a group of Dental Care Professionals known as Clinical Dental Technicians have been approved by the General Dental Council and can now see denture wearers who have no natural teeth remaining, directly without having to visit a dentist.

The advantages to you, the patients, are numerous. You can be treated by a professional who has been clinically trained to undertake the impressions of your mouth and who also has the technical skill to manufacture your denture to meet your requirements.

A more direct, rapid and personalised service, that can be delivered to you in the comfort of your own home or at my day clinic in Edmonton.

By George – what an occasion!

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

KNIGHTS armed with swords and shields lined the streets of Enfield Town at the weekend to mark St George's Day.

The Enfield Market team organised a jam-packed day of events on Saturday (St George's Day itself) including prizes for the best dressed St George and the dragon, a coconut shy, stocks and music from Southgate Opera.

Meanwhile, revellers gathered at The Wonder pub, in Batley Road, to mark the day, enjoying live music and dancing, a barbecue, arts and crafts, a bouncy castle, mini-golf and "lots of fun for everyone", said pub manager Janka Kolenicova.

Ms Kolenicova said: "This is the fourth year we have had a big St George's Day celebration and it was fantastic. The day was all about the community. We haven't done a final count yet, but we wanted to raise enough money to buy a trampoline for the Zebra club here in Enfield, which we have done."

The Zebra Children's Club is a social club for children with special needs and autism that meets at Boleyn Community Hall, in St Martin's Close.

Thousands of people also took part in the annual Enfield District Scout and Guide parade, which wound its way through Enfield Town on Sunday afternoon, starting in Little Park Gardens and finishing at the civic centre.

St George is the patron saint of several other countries, including Spain, Canada, the Czech Republic, Hungary and Lebanon. He is also the patron of all Scouts and Guides.

Cloudy2Clear Announce Trusted Trader Partnership

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has received the coveted 'Which Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that Which? have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering the highest standards possible at all times. "Our service is simple. If your double glazing has misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle.

Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and manager Richard Power agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise."

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

'We shared everything - I'm so glad we don't share this'

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A TWIN taking part in a medical study into the genetics of Parkinson's disease has spoken of his shock and relief after discovering that - unlike him - his identical twin brother was free from the condition.

Peter and Paul Rodriguez, 47, were inseparable growing up and have shared many coincidences throughout their lives.

So when Peter, a teaching assistant, who lives in Connop Road, Freezywater, was diagnosed with the illness three years ago, his first thought was for his brother, who had moved to the United States 20 years earlier.

Peter said: "We were pretty much two peas in a pod. Our friends couldn't tell us apart."

"We had our tonsils removed at the same time, wisdom teeth removed at the same time. Whatever he had, I had."

When Peter was told he had the incurable progressive neurological condition, his thought turned immediately Paul.

Peter said: "I was extremely relieved when I found out he didn't have it."

"If I could choose for one of us to have it, I would want it to be me and I know Paul feels the same about me."

Now the brothers have joined the Parkinson's Families Project, which is led by Professor Huw Morris, consultant neurologist and professor of clinical neuroscience at the UCL Institute of Neurology at the Royal Free London Hospital, in Hampstead.

Professor Morris said: "The participation of Peter and Paul Rodriguez and similar families is essential for our work. We are focused on understanding the basic steps that lead some people to develop Parkinson's while others are unaffected."

"We hope that understanding these mechanisms will in time lead to new treatments that might halt this condition."

Peter, who is a jazz pianist who played with singer songwriter (and former Southgate resident) the late Amy Winehouse, said that in the past year his symptoms had started to have a significant impact on his life and that he now fears for the future.

He said: "It started off as something that was a bit annoying and then started to affect my ability to do the things I really love, like playing piano."

"I worry that my wife married a husband, but I married a carer. I worry for the future and the thought of a 4ft 10ins woman having to push me around in a wheelchair."

"I joined the research project because I wanted to help the doctors who were helping me."

"I also wanted to help stop other people experiencing this illness. If I have a chance to help eradicate this disease, I can't turn that down."

"There's also a part of me that wants to find out why I have it and my brother doesn't."

The research team is interested in hearing from people with a family history of Parkinson's or who developed the condition before the age of 45. To get involved, contact Manuela Tan on 020 7794 0500, or alternatively email manuela.tan@ucl.ac.uk

ONCE upon a time, the final day of your school career would feature a special assembly after which you might possibly find yourself getting covered with shaving foam by your exuberant peers.

Perhaps you'd come back that evening for a disco if you were lucky, but basically that was that.

How times have changed. These days, school proms, once the stuff of 1980s movies such as Pretty in Pink, are big business, and with an estimated UK turnover of up to £100 million, it seems like the erstwhile American tradition is here to stay.

So as thousands of girls and boys up and down the country get set for their big night, here are a few things you probably didn't know about prom night:

- Prom is short for promenade: When proms were first introduced to schools in the late 19th century, they were inspired by galas and debutante balls.

- Even in America, proms weren't held nationwide until the 1930s:

In 1936, a book called The Junior-Senior Prom: Complete Practical Suggestions for Staging the Junior-Senior Prom was published – the first guide to planning such an event.

- In 1975, Susan Ford, the daughter of President Gerald Ford, threw her prom in the White House:

Although the President was away in Europe, the prom event was chaperoned by the Secret Service.

- A girl will try on 10 dresses before she find the right one:

Budding prom queens can spend weeks looking for the perfect outfit.

Charity runners put in marathon effort

Tired and triumphant: Allan Frederiksen, Louise Williams and Jeffrey Till

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

IT was agony and ecstasy for Enfield runners who completed Sunday's London Marathon alongside 39,000 others.

While first-timer Jeffrey Till gritted his teeth to go through the pain barrier, more experienced runners James Arrowsmith and Stephen Moss took it all in their stride.

Jeffrey had to hobble the last five miles of the 26-mile race due to the pain in his arthritic knee.

"Never ever again," said the 52-year-old marathon novice, of Chase Side, after a pain-racked sleepless night following the event.

"I'm stiff all over, my thighs feel on fire and I'm knackered," he said.

"I booked Monday off because I knew I wouldn't be able to get into work. The way I feel now it would probably take me six months crawling on my hands and knees just to get from my home to Enfield Town."

The British Telecom shop steward ran in memory of his sister-in law, who died of lung cancer two years ago, and raised more than £6,800 for the British Lung Foundation.

"I'm immensely proud of myself to have finished in under five hours and intend framing my medal and prominently displaying it," he added.

Brothers-in law James and Stephen have run the marathon many times before – seven and six respectively.

Both are members of Trent Park Running Club and compete in club events.

James, a product manager, of Manor Road, raised more than £3,000 for the Sarcoma UK charity in memory of his father, who died from cancer last year.

He completed the race in a personal best time of two hours, 59 minutes and 57 seconds.

Stephen, an insurance broker, who lives off Parsonage Lane, also achieved a personal best, crossing the line in three hours and 12 seconds.

The two men were cheered on by their wives,

Dynamic duo: Brothers-in-law James Arrowsmith and Stephen Moss

Kate and Louise, who are identical twins, as well as Stephen's son Oliver and other relatives.

Twenty Trent Park club runners took part, with Paul Brennan (2-43), Scott Aiken (2-49) and David Kunzman (2-50) producing the best times.

Raising money for research into Parkinson's disease was Winchmore Hill resident Allan Frederiksen. The 45-year-old, of Woodcroft, was running in his second marathon and chose the charity Parkinson's UK to benefit from his fundraising feat. His father has the disease.

Allan, who finished in a respectable time of three hours and 26 minutes, said: "It's a great experience to take part, but it's a shame you can't enjoy the second half of the race because its so physically exhausting."

Edmonton resident and singer and dancer Louise Williams, another first-timer, also overcame the pain barrier to complete the marathon and raise £1,500 for deafblind charity Sense.

The 20-year-old said: "I was coasting until I hit the wall at 16 miles. It hurt so much, but the kindness and support from the crowds lining the route kept me going."

Don't face this illness alone

FOR more than 16 years, ever since my brother in law Gordon Scarfe was diagnosed, I have seen at first-hand what it's like to live with Parkinson's and what a struggle it can be to cope with this progressive and potentially devastating condition.

In many ways, Gordon is lucky as he has a loving and supportive family around him.

Some people struggle on their own and, heartbreakingly, this is often because they are frightened to share their diagnosis.

According to new findings from Parkinson's UK, released to highlight this month's Parkinson's Awareness Week, nearly two fifths of people with Parkinson's feel the need to hide their symptoms or lie about their condition to those closest to them.

There are 127,000 people living with Parkinson's in the UK and someone is diagnosed with the condition every hour. Parkinson's UK estimates that, sadly, 42,000 people in the UK have delayed sharing their diagnosis with someone close to them.

What this means is that fear of "coming out" about Parkinson's is preventing people from seeking the vital support available, just when they are struggling emotionally to cope.

Nearly 20 per cent of people surveyed said it "felt like my world has ended" in the year following diagnosis. It particularly upsets me to learn that the problem is especially acute for younger people, who may be trying to juggle demanding family and work commitments while hiding life-changing news.

No one should feel alone in dealing with a diagnosis of Parkinson's. I am determined that each and every person with the disease should be aware of the support available so that they feel able to face the future, rather than hide from it.

There is so much that can be done to help and I can't bear to think of those diagnosed suffering unnecessary fear and anxiety on their own.

I hope this letter will encourage those among your readers who are affected to contact us and help them feel more confident about sharing their diagnosis with someone close to them.

For more information, please visit parkinsons.org.uk or call our free-phone helpline 0800 800 0303.

Do you recognise names of these fallen soldiers?

I AM acting on behalf of the authorities at the United Nations Memorial Cemetery Busan South Korea, where more than 800 British servicemen are buried.

The authorities there wish to obtain photographs of those servicemen interred there and also of those who died, but have no known grave.

The photographs will be attached to the men's records and will also be displayed on the walls of the Cemetery Hall of Remembrance, for all time.

The following names are just a few of the young men from the greater London area who gave their lives in Korea: Private Redmond F Morton; Corporal Roland D Weaver; Private Robert W Scott; Private William E Dix; Major Charles P Donoghue; Lieutenant Corporal Roy W Morgan; Rifleman Leslie Short; Private Stanley H Law; Lieutenant Alfred B S Hudson; Gunner Reginald B Newman; Lieutenant Alan P Daniels (RN); Private Ronald Luckhurst; Sergeant Herbert F Richards;

Fusillier Alan R Pryor; Lieutenant Dighton; and F P Probyn.

Any family or friend, who lost a loved one in the Korean War 1950-53 and wishes to take part can send the photograph to Brian Hough, 116 Fields Farm Road, Hyde, SK14 3NP.

For further details, phone 0161 368 5622, or 07467 037742. You can also email bhough116@gmail.com

May I thank you for any help that you can give on this matter.

We're cleaning up for charity

I WANT to thank your readers who have been giving their spring-cleaning real meaning this year and donating items to their local British Heart Foundation shop as they declutter their homes.

As you may know, I'm a big fan of keeping the home spick and span and spring is the perfect time to have a good old clean-up and clear-out.

Every unwanted item donated is hugely appreciated by your local BHF shop and each jumper, CD, wardrobe and book helps in the fight for every heartbeat.

With cardiovascular disease causing 13,500 deaths last year across London alone, the need for vital heart research has never been greater and the amazing support of people in your local area will help to continue funding more than 1,000 research projects across the UK.

If you are yet to get out your feather duster and start spring-cleaning, there's no need to worry as BHF shops are always in need of stock to fill their rails and so would love your unwanted items all year round.

It's also a great time to take advantage of the free collection service to make decluttering and donating completely hassle free. For more information, please visit bhf.org.uk

Voice concerns at loss of vital service

WE are writing to express our concern at the decision to cut the Deaf Project and Enfield Disability Action (EDA), which came into force on April 18.

The Deaf Community's Enfield Deaf Image Group (ENDIG) was not consulted or engaged properly before the decision was made.

ENDIG was surprised at the lack of consultation between the council and EDA regarding deaf services.

The Deaf Project has a wealth of experiences in service with deaf people, so has recorded much evidence.

This will show the necessity for the Deaf Project to continue.

The council should have engaged fully with EDA's Deaf Project as part of its network in the borough to avoid a further grief and difficulty.

Many deaf people were surprised at the announcement of online services set up with British Sign Language interpreters in Enfield Civic Centre and libraries.

This happened without consultation with the Deaf Project and ENDIG.

Lack of consultation with EDA's Deaf Project and ENDIG has gone on for months.

For instance, a recent one was a deaf awareness training arranged with one organisation outside Enfield. It would have been better for the council to check with the EDA's Deaf Project.

British Sign Language was recognised as a fourth language by the government in March 2003.

It has a complex and rich language, developed by the deaf community. To learn this requires a minimum of three years.

It has been reported that the Deaf Project has successfully helped deaf people for more than 20 years.

The Deaf Project's staff must have sign language skill in order to communication with deaf people with different academic and social levels.

ENDIG believes the closure of the Deaf Project service will have a big impact and the "online" service to replace the Deaf Project will not help.

The ENDIG group is asking you to call the council to save the Deaf Project, which has been running successfully for more than 20 years. ENDIG is asking you to call the council to follow up the care policy and the EDA policy for disabled and deaf people.

Please save the Deaf Project.

Hugh McCormack
Enfield Deaf Image Group

Why is it OK for us, Mr Gilligan?

I AM trying to understand why Andrew Gilligan claims there is no similarity between proposals he objected to in Greenwich (his backyard) and those he plans to impose in Enfield Town ("What's the difference?", Advertiser, April 13).

The truth is that what he actually said in his blog is the Greenwich proposals would "remove traffic from a relatively small part of the centre.

But they will impose extra traffic on the rest of the centre and across a far wider area."

This is exactly what the situation will be in Cecil Road.

Mr Gilligan told your reporter that if it were proposed to close Cecil Road and funnel all the traffic into Church Street he would oppose that so why then does he consider it acceptable to close Church Street and funnel all the traffic into Cecil Road?

Mr Gilligan said in his blog: "The victims will be local residents." As a local resident it would be good to know why he thinks it's OK for our local residents to be victims?

Record number get first choice school places

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A RECORD number of primary school children got their first choice of school with Enfield Council claiming it was down to "more places" and "careful planning".

More than 96 per cent of families were offered a place at one of their first three choices, compared with 94 per cent last year.

Of 4,508 "on-time" applications, plus 40 late bids – the highest number since 2011 – 4,399 children have been offered one of their preferred schools, leaving 109 on-time applicants without the offer of a preferred place.

Parents now have to accept the offer in order for their children to start school in September.

Ayfer Orhan, the council's cabinet member for education, children's services and protection, said Enfield had created 4,400 new school places in the past few years to try and cater for everyone.

She said: "This year 96.26 per cent of families have been offered a place at one of their first three preferences.

"Through careful planning and well-managed projects we have consistently developed primary school places working with schools to ensure that we have enough places in the areas where they are most needed.

"In the past few years we have created in

'Careful planning': Enfield Council's cabinet member for education, children's services and protection excess of 4,400 places to ensure that Enfield's children can learn in great schools with all the facilities and great teaching for them to thrive."

At Enfield schools, 213 places have been offered to children living outside the borough, and 232 Enfield children have been offered places at schools run by other local authorities.

Enfield Council also confirmed that there were 422 places still open in reception for the 2016/17 school year.

Stafford replaced following reshuffle

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A LONG-SERVING finance chief has lost his top job just months after a much-publicised foul-mouthed outburst at an Enfield Council meeting.

Veteran politician Andrew Stafford had been the cabinet's finance chief since the Labour group came to power in 2010.

However, he was axed from the cabinet earlier this month when Labour councillors voted internally on who should remain in the top jobs.

Mr Stafford, who represents the Edmonton Green ward, has overseen six years of cuts to Enfield's local government grant, steering successive budgets through the corridors of power in the borough.

But his future in Labour's top team had been in doubt ever since he called Conservative ward councillor for Southgate Green Alessandro Georgiou a four-letter expletive at full council meeting in November last year.

The outburst, prompted by a speech from the young Conservative councillor lauding the work of Margaret Thatcher in her treatment of strikers in the 1980s, was widely reported and sparked a Tory walk-out from the chamber in protest at his language.

Dino Lemonides, a ward councillor for Turkey Street, takes over from Mr Stafford as cabinet member for finance.

Mr Lemonides works as an accountant and was elected to the council for the first time in 2010.

Kristal Fonyonga is replacing Nneka Keazor as the cabinet member for community safety and public health.

The trained lawyer has risen rapidly through the ranks of the Labour group after being elected to represent the Enfield Lock ward in 2014.

Burrowes helps defeat migrant bill amendment

AN MP has defended his decision to vote against an amendment to the government's immigration bill allowing 3,000 unaccompanied children stranded in Europe into the UK.

David Burrowes, the Conservative MP for Enfield Southgate, insists he is satisfied with the government's pledge last week to bring 3,000 children from Syria, other parts of the Middle East and north Africa while giving aid money to charities to help with the administration of migrant camps in Europe, rather than accepting the thousands of child refugees who have already travelled to Europe.

The father-of-six, told the Advertiser: "The government have introduced a new relocation scheme for unaccompanied children in the Middle East and north Africa.

"That's why I supported the government against Lord Dubs' amendment to the immigration bill.

"They have pledged £10million in aid to children's charities to deal with the process of registering asylum claims from children in camps in France and Greece."

Mr Burrowes has visited camps in northern France and seen the chaos – and says that funding charities on the ground in those camps is better than bringing unaccompanied migrant children to Britain.

On Monday night, MPs voted by 294 votes to 276 to reject a plan for Britain to accept 3,000 unaccompanied Syrian child refugees who had travelled to Europe.

Ministers say they will take an extra 3,000 vulnerable children, but that they should be drawn from camps near the conflict zone.

A small number of Conservatives rebelled against the government to vote with Labour to help the children who had already made the journey.

Joan Ryan, Labour MP for Enfield North, and Kate Osamor, Labour MP for Edmonton, both voted in favour of the amendment.

The amendment to the government's immigration bill had been proposed by Labour's Lord Dubs, who himself arrived in Britain as a child refugee fleeing the Holocaust in the 1930s.

Hoping for change of heart: Keble School bursar John Field

School awaits fate of bid to prevent costly demolition job

Extension will have to come down if planning chiefs reject alterations

A PRIVATE school was waiting to hear this week whether it has to bulldoze a cloakroom extension following a building blunder over how high it is.

Fee-paying Keble Preparatory School, in Winchmore Hill, were due to find out at last night's (Tuesday) meeting of Enfield Council's planning committee if the modifications it had agreed to make had been rejected.

The Advertiser went to press before the outcome of the meeting was known. The school fears if consent is refused it could be landed with a bill of more than £250,000.

The single-storey cloakroom was built two years ago to replace a rickety, shed-like building which leaked and was draughty.

But its size was deemed by the council to have a significant adverse affect on a neighbour's adjoining property.

When the school realised a mistake had been over the height, it applied to the council for retrospective planning consent.

Although officers recommended approval, councillors on the planning committee turned down the application on the grounds that the taller-than-agreed extension led to a loss of "outlook and an increased sense of enclosure" for the resident of the neighbouring property, in Harwoods Yard, Wades Hill.

But John Field, the school's bursar, fears that if the modifications, which include changing the materials used on the roof and removing the parapet walling, are rejected the only option for the school will be to demolish the cloakroom and rebuild rebuild it.

"If we have to demolish and completely rebuild, it's something like a quarter of a million pounds because it joins into an extension at the back, so we would have to take the whole thing down and rebuild from scratch," Mr Field explained.

"Obviously, it's a huge chunk of money, so it then has a knock-on effect on other things that we would like to refurbish."

Although yearly fees for senior boys at the school work out at about £12,000, Mr Field explained that because of its fee-paying status, Keble is not eligible for any of the building grants that state-run primaries can apply for.

Despite the school's admission that it is prepared to spend £70,000 on changes it feels will benefit its neighbour, in a report which went before the planning committee, officers told councillors that the changes did not address the local authority's previous concerns about the development.

The report states that the school "has not overcome the reasons for previous refusal as it has failed to address the main issue relating to its height and scale and the resulting loss of outlook and sense of enclosure".

Yoga competition to boost funding of autism charity

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A YOGA teacher is running a competition to raise money for a charity that works with autistic children.

Cathy Underwood, who runs Yoga4Mums from her Enfield base, also heads up the dance and movement department at Treehouse School, in Woodside Avenue, East Finchley.

She has now launched a bid to raise money for Ambitious about Autism – the charity that funds the school with the aim of helping children and young people with autism accomplish as much as possible.

Cathy is running a retreat in Dalyan, in Turkey, in June and is offering yoga lovers, and those with no previous experience, the chance to win a place.

She says she wants to do something positive to raise money for Treehouse, particularly now to mark Autism Awareness Month.

"The people who run the beautiful retreat really wanted to do something to support the cause as well," she said.

"Ambitious about Autism runs Treehouse School. It funds different activities for people with autism and helps with training and employment opportunities for people with autism."

"We all have different strengths. Some people might need more support, but that doesn't mean they can't do anything. They are still a vital part of our society."

To enter the competition, log on to Cathy's fundraising page on <http://uk.virginmoneygiving.com/fundraiser-web/fundraiser/showFundraiserPage.action> and make a donation. Entrants can leave a message on the page and the minimum that can be donated is £5.

The winner will be announced on May 20.

Bigger and better: Cheryl Johnson with some of her greetings cards, inset

Cheryl's playing her cards right

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

AN entrepreneur who launched a new line of greetings cards last year has her sights set on even bigger projects.

Cheryl Johnson set up Fearless Cards last year after realising that no greetings cards for children, birthdays, graduations, or anniversaries featured representations of black people, or indeed, of any ethnic minorities.

She sells the cards online via www.fearlesssteps.co.uk and through the I Am Hair salon, in Green Lanes, Palmers Green.

Cheryl, who lives in Glasgow Road, Edmonton, set up her business with the idea of raising the profile of black people and, right from the start, she has insisted that the designs on the cards are drawn by art students who are still at school or college.

Part of her aim is to promote talented young people in the black community by highlighting their potential and achievements.

"I think there are some very talented youngsters out there and I think it is so important to showcase them," she told the Advertiser.

At the moment she is particularly interested in getting more young people, including those studying art at college, to work with her and her design team to create her vision of promoting the power and beauty of black lives in print.

Explaining the thoughts behind her vision that led her to move from her job in the City to setting up her company, she revealed: "The thing is cards should reflect the people in society and I don't think they do."

"There's a lot of educated youngsters – we just don't see them. I'm meeting these very ambitious young men and women."

Her vision for helping young people includes working as a motivational speaker and mentor in schools and she often speaks in school assemblies about power and potential.

"They need to see more successful people like them," she said, speaking of young black students. "They need to see more role models. So a group of us in the community have come together and we will be launching a finance venture."

Cheryl has a vision that the finance group will act as a way of backing business ventures among people in the black community who may not have direct experience of investing capital.

"We will use the finance raised through business and investment to fund things that would directly benefit our community," she said.

One of the things Cheryl would like to raise money to fund would be a health centre that focuses specifically on health issues and inequalities that disproportionately affect the black Caribbean and African communities, specifically fibroids, sickle cell anaemia and diabetes.

"We need more research into these issues, we need to find ways of directly addressing and helping these issues ourselves," she added.

Cheryl and her colleagues will be launching their finance venture at a networking event in the Dugdale Centre, in London Road, Enfield Town, on May 14, from 6pm to 9pm. Tickets will be £5 and to book a pop-up stand promoting your business or skill costs £15.

Cheryl is asking anyone interested in the event to register on eventbrite via <https://www.eventbrite.com/e/fearless-connections-event-002-tickets-24381078462?aff=eac2>

Let there be rock

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

THE stadium may be missing, but the sheer overblown spectacle of an arena rock show comes to Edmonton on Saturday.

Instantly recognisable chart-topping rock anthems and power ballads – 48 of them in total – will capture the excitement, thrills and theatrical showmanship of a live concert by a host of legendary rock bands.

One Night of Rock at Millfield Theatre on Saturday is a feast of arm-waving, foot-stomping, air-punching, head-banging and chorus-singing anthems.

Featuring the music of Bon Jovi, Queen, The Rolling Stones, Meat Loaf, Led Zeppelin, Guns n' Roses, The Who, Aerosmith, AC/DC, Iron Maiden, Status Quo, Dire Straits, Jimi Hendrix, Lynyrd Skynyrd, Whitesnake, Muse, ZZ Top, Kiss and many more, the production is described by promoter Michael Taylor as an "audio visual rock experience".

"It features non-stop, axe-wielding, powerhouse performances, plus an awesome laser show," says Michael.

"From Whole Lotta Love to Sweet Child of Mine, Born to be Wild to Walk this Way, Layla to Bohemian Rhapsody, I Can't Get No Satisfaction to Bat Out of Hell, Freebird to Eye of the Tiger, Highway to Hell to The Final Countdown, music fans are in for an unrelenting wave of feel-good rock anthems," he added.

The songs are performed by two girls and two guys with powerful vocal ranges and the stage personas to match, backed by an axe-wielding all-girl band.

"The show will have music fans rocking in the aisles and joining in the choruses of anthems like We Will Rock You as it takes them on a nostalgic two-hour trip back in time to the glory days of live rock anthems," added Michael.

The song remains the same: The show will feature covers of classic rock acts including Led Zeppelin, The Rolling Stones and Jimi Hendrix

You can have your event included in the Enfield Advertiser for free. Why can't they all just be friends?

CAPTAIN AMERICA: CIVIL WAR
(12A, 147 mins)

THE fragile alliance between the Avengers is shattered in the third Captain America film, directed at a breathless pace by brothers Joe and Anthony Russo.

Opening with a flashback to 1991 that sets one major character on the self-destructive path, Civil War underscores its bombastic title by pitting former allies against each other in a series of dizzying showdowns that cleave apart the Marvel Comics universe.

Scriptwriters Christopher Markus and Stephen McFeely repeatedly inhabit the blurred lines between heroism and villainy, examining the moral conundrums faced by superpowered warriors who have pledged to protect the innocent from the righteous crossfire.

No one emerges unscathed from the melee and the deep psychological wounds inflicted in these bombastic 147 minutes suggest that this muscular chapter signals a bittersweet end for some characters while blatantly teeing up standalone spin-offs for Spider-Man and Black Panther.

"Victory at the expense of the innocent is no victory at all," solemnly intones King T'Chaka (John Kani) from the battle-scarred nation of Wakanda.

If that is true, then Captain America: Civil War is a crushing defeat for everyone except thrill-seeking cinema audiences.

A year has passed since the events of Avengers: Age of Ultron and the US Secretary of State Thaddeus Ross (William Hurt) insists on the introduction of legislation – The Sokovia Accords – to control the superheroes.

Patriot: Captain America/Steve Rogers (Chris Evans)

Tony Stark, aka Iron Man (Robert Downey Jr), reluctantly submits, telling his compatriots: "I'm doing what has to be done to stave off something worse."

Steve Rogers, aka Captain America (Chris Evans), who has always been a staunch patriot, refuses to sign, fearful of the consequences of the Avengers relinquishing their independence.

The gulf between Stark and Rogers forces the remaining Avengers to take sides.

Natasha Romanoff/Black Widow (Scarlett Johansson), James Rhodes/War Machine (Don Cheadle), Vision (Paul Bettany), Prince T'Challa/Black Panther (Chadwick Boseman) and Peter Parker/Spider-Man (Tom Holland) all stand shoulder to shoulder with Stark. Meanwhile, Bucky Barnes/Winter Soldier (Sebastian Stan), Sam Wilson/Falcon (Anthony Mackie), Wanda Maximoff/Scarlet Witch (Elizabeth Olsen), Clint Barton/Hawkeye (Jeremy Renner) and Scott Lang/Ant-Man (Paul Rudd) pledge their allegiance to Rogers.

A battle royale between the two factions unfolds just as a diabolical new enemy, Baron Zemo (Daniel Bruhl), threatens mankind.

Captain America: Civil War could easily trim 20 minutes from its bloated running time without diminishing the impact of the special effects sequences or the pivotal plot twists.

The Russo brothers choreograph destruction on a grand scale, including an adrenaline-pumping motorcycle chase on the rubble-strewn streets of Berlin.

Evans and Downey Jr puff out their chests for supremacy in every lavish frame, while Johansson somersaults sexily between the feuding factions.

A protracted sequence involving Stark, a nerdy Peter Parker and Aunt May (Marisa Tomei) sows seeds of hope that next year's reboot, Spider-Man: Homecoming, might revitalise the web-slinging vigilante with whip-smart humour.

Miracles might happen.

To celebrate our new office
you can sell your home for just 0.5%!

Baker and Chase are marking their 2nd birthday by launching their new bespoke office on the prominent former Morgan Butler site – 161 Chase Side, Enfield, EN2 0PW.

The professionally designed office will feature a state-of-the-art window display, multimedia centre and a comfortable customer focussed lounge designed to offer clients the best possible moving experience.

The new office is set to open on Bank Holiday weekend, but until then it is business as usual. To celebrate the launch Baker and Chase are offering the next 25 clients a special promotional rate of 0.5% for sellers and just 5% for landlords. T's & C's apply, just simply call 020 3637 1100 and mention the opening offer.

Founder Stewart Muir says: "It has been such an enjoyable first two years, it literally feels like yesterday our first property went up for sale on Myddelton Avenue and since then we have gone on to sell and rent some exceptional property across Enfield, achieving exceptional prices along the way. People seem to love our plain speaking approach, we are accurate with our valuations and often go on to achieve in excess of the prices we set.

We pride ourselves on our ability to market and advertise our client's properties to the highest standards. We've always been a little bit different, we don't have huge ambitions to be the biggest Estate Agent in the area, we prefer to focus on being the best agent across Enfield. Seeing our new office take shape is real testament to our efforts over the past 2 years and we hope it will put us in a stronger position to deliver an even better level of service than ever before!

We hope people come and take advantage of our opening offers, it will be a great opportunity for us to show local residents exactly why more and more sellers and landlords are deciding to use us and it will also allow the lucky 25 an opportunity to sell or rent for a reduced rate. I'd be delighted to personally speak to anyone considering selling or renting and give them more information."

For more information or to book your free marker appraisal, call Baker and Chase on 020 3637 1100 or visit their website www.bakerandchase.co.uk

It's the Dawn of a new era...

By Matt Kimberley

BEFORE the arrival of the Dawn, the Phantom Drophead Coupe was the only convertible model in the Rolls-Royce line-up, and tremendous though that car is, there was clearly a need for a slightly more manageable version with a lower price tag and broader appeal.

With the smaller Ghost II saloon and Wraith proving there's a market for cars beneath the Phantom range, the Dawn is designed to meet those desires.

Speak to Rolls-Royce about the Dawn and they explain how it's designed to bring more sex appeal to the brand and attract younger customers – in fact, they go as far as describing it as “the sexiest Rolls-Royce ever built”.

That's for you to judge, but the Dawn gets a unique exterior, folding fabric roof and four-seater cabin, as well as the brand's superlative standards of refinement and build quality. Choice is something of a misnomer when it comes to specifying your Dawn because you can have any colour you like, but it's more crucial than ever to pick right when it comes to this particular car.

More sober hues lend an air of discretion, but go for a lighter paint shade and a contrast roof and you can really see the modern influences.

It's not so extreme as to frighten off older buyers, but at the same time, if you start seeing Dawns cropping up in LA-set music videos, don't be surprised. This really is a Royce for the YouTube generation.

Rolls-Royce isn't big on compromise either, so although the Dawn is billed as a 2+2, it's a bit more generous than that. Up front of course there's plenty of space, roof up or down, and although the wide centre console keeps you enclosed, it is in a comfortable manner.

The rear space however makes the Dawn a genuine four-seater. The seats are supremely comfortable and even sat behind a six-footer there's good legroom. The boot is more than sufficient to handle big luggage, too, with up to 295 litres with the roof up and 244 with it down.

The roof is a key element to the Dawn driving experience. With it raised, the cabin is cocooned and remarkably quiet, due in part to the effort Rolls-Royce put in with six layers of fabric and “French seam” stitching. It lowers in 22 seconds, in beautifully-engineered silence, and you can lower it at up to 31mph.

However you have the roof, the Dawn delivers a sumptuous driving experience you can't find elsewhere.

While the physical differences between it and the Phantom are relatively small, the Dawn is more engaging to drive and happy to be hurried briskly along country roads, but still it always demands very little of you. The steering is accurate and the retuned suspension keeps it level and controlled without harming the magical ride quality.

The 6.6-litre V12 barely emits a murmur, but is always ready to provide rapid and effort-free acceleration. You can reach 62mph in just 4.9 seconds. However, it is the way the Dawn flows along with the road that makes it so special, gaining speed as easily as it sheds it and remaining unperturbed by the outside world.

There's not much competition as the Dawn's basic price is £250,000, with the more crucial factor being that it feels sufficiently special and luxurious. It's spectacular to look at from the outside with a flawless finish, while inside there is a delightful mix of wood, leather and metal trim. Only the occasional sliver of plastic puts some distance between it and the peerless Phantom. More than anything though, the Dawn provides an experience that makes even an ordinary journey feel extraordinary.

Dear Susan

We knew you'd like to see this article in The Advertiser about your old school and a reunion they are planning.

Although you're far away did you know you can view the newspaper online via the digital edition at any time of the week?

There are often articles about the very area you grew up in and people you may know.

We can keep sending the paper to you but this seems such a simple and convenient way to stay in touch with all the news from where you grew up.

Love to all, Mum xxx

In print...or ONLINE

Tel 020 8364 4040 for more info

In this rapidly moving technological age people are finding new ways to advertise, especially online via the internet. But contrary to what online sites are saying and common assumptions, print advertising is not dead. There are still benefits and disadvantages to both methods and the best way to succeed is to find a vehicle that covers both bases - and that's where we come in!

The Benefits of print advertising:

1. Print adverts last longer and will be seen often.
2. They will be seen by a large number of people and have the ability to hit a specific audience.
3. There is a more creative potential with print advertising.
4. There is a positive perception of newspaper advertising - it will encourage people to think the client is serious.

The Benefits of online advertising:

1. The advert content can be easily updated.
2. It's online 24/7, 12 months a year, all round the world.
3. A massive audience, with all ages now online.
4. Very quick response - you can be receiving candidates hours after posting your advert.

We'll give you the best of both worlds - every week, all week!

POCHETTINO: I STILL BELIEVE

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

HEAD coach Mauricio Pochettino insists that Tottenham Hotspur have not given up hope of being crowned champions this season despite suffering a major setback to their Premier League title bid when they were held 1-1 at home by West Bromwich Albion on Monday night.

The result leaves Spurs seven points adrift of Leicester City with just three matches remaining and means that the leaders will take the title if they beat Manchester United this weekend.

But Pochettino has refused to accept defeat in the title race and feels that there is still a slim chance that they can catch the leaders.

"It is not over," he said. "The gap is seven points and we have three games ahead. It is true that it is very difficult, more difficult than before the game, but we still believe and we are still fighting."

"We have to hope Leicester drop points and we get three points at Chelsea. It is important to still fight. The objective is still there."

"It is more difficult than before, but the gap to Arsenal and Manchester City [who lie fourth and third] is five points and we need to keep this gap. It is important to win in case Leicester drop points so we can win the title."

Spurs were left to rue their failure to take their chances against West Brom as they struck the woodwork three times in a game which saw the visitors' Craig Dawson score at both ends.

"We played very well in the first half," Pochettino added. "We created a lot of chances, and the feeling was that we spent a lot of energy and the reward was only to be 1-0 ahead."

"In the second half we lost some control and allowed them to believe and conceded a goal from a set-

Not giving up: Mauricio Pochettino refuses to accept defeat in the race for the Premier League title piece. I feel proud of the effort, but I'm a little disappointed because we deserved more."

"We have different objectives, first to try to win the league and then to try to keep our position in the table. There is still so much to play for. We need to lift the players, we need to lift our heads, still believe and be ready for the next game."

Meanwhile, Dele Alli has expressed his pride after he was named the Professional Footballers' Association's Young Player of the Year at their annual awards evening on Sunday.

"I'm honoured to win such a prestigious award and I have to say thank you to all the players who voted for me," he said. "It's been a good year for me and I've obviously got a lot of people to thank, especially the gaffer for giving me my chance."

"I have always been quite confident in my own ability, but maybe I didn't expect things to happen this quickly. I've still got a lot of hard work to do though and hopefully next season will be even better."

"I'm still young, I have a lot to learn and it's important I don't get too carried away. I've got great support around me to keep my feet on the floor and that's great for me."

In-form London Skolars move level with league leaders

THE London Skolars moved joint top of rugby league's Kingstone Press Championship One after maintaining their excellent form with a comprehensive 52-20 victory at home to Coventry on Saturday.

It took the hosts some time to get into their stride, but they broke the deadlock on 15 minutes when Alex Walker collected Jy-Mel Coleman's high kick and scored a converted try. Chris Barratt's try got Coventry back on level terms, but the Skolars took control of the game in the closing stages of the first half, with Coleman and Walker grabbing further converted tries and Mike Bishay adding a penalty to leave them 20-6 ahead at the interval.

This dominance continued after the restart and Erjon Dollapi touched down twice in quick succession. Bishay converted both tries before adding another penalty.

Richie Hughes claimed a try for the visitors, but the Skolars were soon back on the attack and John Paxton and Bishay both crossed the line.

Grant Beecham and Charlie O'Mara grabbed consolation scores for Coventry, but it was the hosts who fittingly had the final say as Israel Eliab touched down to take them past the 50-point mark.

"Consistency is a massive focus for us this year," said head coach Jermaine Coleman. "We need to make sure that we back up our efforts each week.

"We've had a tendency to start well and drop off and that's probably what we're looking to do better now. After starting a game well, we need to make sure we don't have that period where we allow teams back into the contest."

"I think where we came from last year off the first two games, conceding 40 points set the tone for what we needed work on. Defence is a real focus of ours, it's something the boys have really bought in to and are enjoying at the moment."

The London Skolars entertain Keighley Cougars in the semi-finals of the iPro Cup on Saturday (2.30pm).

Borough finish off with pair of draws

HARINGEY BOROUGH finished their first season in Ryman League Division One North in a highly creditable 15th position after securing a pair of draws from their two matches during the final week of the campaign.

Having been promoted from the Essex Senior League last year, Borough initially struggled at the higher level and looked as if they were going to be facing a real battle to avoid the drop as they found themselves bottom in December.

But they improved dramatically as the season progressed and ultimately pulled well away from the danger zone – with a 2-2 draw at home to Soham Town Rangers on Tuesday last week and Saturday's 1-1 stalemate at Great Waking Rovers seeing them end up ten points clear of the bottom three.

The clash against Soham proved to be a hugely entertaining affair with both sides creating numerous chances.

Soham opened the scoring after just four minutes when Ross Paterson latched on to a long ball and drilled into the net from the edge of the box.

However, the hosts equalised eight minutes before the interval when Aaron Scott netted with a towering header from Daniel Aristidou's free-kick.

The scores were not level for long though as the visitors restored their advantage in the early stages of the second half courtesy of Salim Relizani.

Again Borough hit back and Nana Asamoah ensured that they would pick up a point for their efforts by firing into the top corner on 55 minutes.

Meanwhile, Saturday's match saw Aristidou give them the lead on 36 minutes before Lewis Sparrow grabbed the equaliser for Great Waking.
